Description

GMADA Eco City is an upcoming ultra-modern Township project that is located at Mullanpur, New Chandigarh. The project is surrounded by lush green areas. The scheme launched in the year 2011 for the allotment of 836 residential plots evoked overwhelming response as approximately 1, 60, 000 applications were received. Planned to the south of MDR-B, this project is available in Phase-I, who is being developed on an area of 400 acres, which has been acquired under 100% land pooling, thereby making the farmers as the stakeholders and none of the farmers have been uprooted.

Considering the financial growth potential of New Chandigarh city and the nearby area under GMADA in the next years, it is anticipated that the economic growth will drive development and can spur further growth. With this growing urbanization and congestion of existing cities, GMADA conceived the idea of developing a new independent and self-sustaining city to cater to this spillover of the projected growth of Mohali and Chandigarh over the next twenty years.
