Krishna Raja Puram or K R Puram is one of the main market areas in the city. It is located 15 kilometers from Bangalore City Railway Station on Old Madras Road (NH-4). It is very close to IT corridor of Whitefield Road and Maratahalli. It is surrounded by Dooravani Nagar, Kuvempu Nagar, B Narayanapura, A Narayanapura and Pai Layout. The Cambridge Institute of Technology, as well as the Indian Telephone Industry with its residential area is situated in this area.

It is one of the fast-growing localities of Bangalore as ITPL is just 4kms away. It is a residential locality with facilities like hospital, college, school, bus stop, market all within 2 km radius. It is 5 to 6 km from the metro and railway station. The area has a mix of all communities like the North Indians, Keralites, Tamilians and Reddys. It has close proximity to the IT corridor. It is famous for India first cable stayed bridge. KR Puram is also a major railway junction. The Yellammappa Shetty Lake, situated just outside the eastern limits of KR Puram, is the largest lake in Bangalore.
